Shiloh, June 8.—Mr. W. L. Chestine killed his day Sunday (rabid). The dog had been lolling around for several days with all symptoms of rabid. No precaution was taken to the dog until Sunday when it became furious, biting a pig and then Mr. Chestine on the leg. Immediately after killing the dog he went to Dr. J. W. If I had all those Heinous Flies compressed in one bulk, I'd send them to some popocatepetl volcano.

What is needed at present is an old fashion north-east drizzle—a clay and potato soaker—then you would see things get a hump and until it comes nothing is going to do any good. Mark you. These local rains are not benevolent to the growing crops, as a general one would be. That is all of it.
